

The 1968 Blue Quill

Corrigan High School

*Corrigan, Texas
Volume XXVIII*

FOREWORD

It has been said that one opens a good book with anticipation and closes it with profit. The basic idea in planning the Blue Quill has been the creation of a book that will meet these requirements.

"The Name of the Game Is Spirit" has been selected as the theme for the picture story of this year. Each page is filled with the boastful spirit exemplified by everyone who is a part of the Corrigan-Camden Schools.

We, the Blue Quill staff, would like to thank all those whose efforts and cooperation went into this annual to make it a success: Mr. Lynn Wildman, representative for Taylor Publishing Company; Mark III Foster, our photographer; the faculty; the citizens of Corrigan and Camden; all members of the staff; and a special thanks to Mr. Cockrell, Mr. Hyde, Mrs. Hazel Anderson, and our advisor, Mrs. Gwen Reily.

Members of the staff hope that you will begin reading the history of this year with a great deal of anticipation. When you close the book, we hope that you will have reaped a profit of renewed memories of the days of the old Blue and White.

*MR. J. R. COCKRELL
SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS*

TO YOU . . .

A classic writer, John Milton, once said, "He alone is worthy of appellation who either does great things, or teaches how they may be done, or describes and praises them with a suitable majesty when they have been done." We feel that this is an especially appropriate description of our Superintendent, Mr. Cockrell.

Of the three elements which make up a school-administration, faculty, and students - the administration perhaps deals with the most complicated and perplexing of problems. When the proposed million dollar Corrigan-Camden High School begins to materialize into a tangible object, it will be a result of the boundless effort and determination of Mr. Cockrell. He has spent the entire year in meeting after meeting working out endless details to insure that every child who attends school in this district will be a better individual when he leaves than he was when he arrived.

Even under the trying circumstances of the past year, Mr. Cockrell has been a source of unfailing strength and wisdom. He has counseled with us as groups and individuals, always encouraging and never failing to express his faith in us. Because of this service and dedication, the staff proudly dedicates the 1968 Blue Quill to Mr. J. R. Cockrell.

THE CORRIGAN SCHOOL SYSTEM . .

Governor George T. Wood, second governor of Texas, once urged in an address during his tenure of office that "... some just and feasible plan for education be adopted so as to produce the greatest good for the greatest number ...". His challenge has been heartily accepted by the Corrigan School District. During its long history, it has dedicated itself by every means possible to achieve the greatest good in education for the greatest number of students. A prime key to this accomplishment was consolidation.

It all began with the first major consolidation in the school's history in 1938. At that time, all of the small rural schools in the northern part of the county--Wakefield, Union Grove (Skinnertown), Carmona, Rock Island, Benton Springs, Lime Ridge, Asia, and Stryker were combined with the then existing school centrally located in Corrigan.

The sudden swelling of student enrollment made the old two-story brick building, erected in 1908, plus the adjacent frame high school building, totally inadequate. Consequently, the Board of Trustees purchased a 25-acre tract of land in the south end of Corrigan as the location for a new $200,000 high school plant, which was completed in 1940. With its erection was introduced higher scholastic standards. New and varied courses were offered as a result of this program, among which were vocational agriculture, homemaking, and journalism. It was at this time that the first BLUE QUILL was published.

Modernization and the zeal for perfection did not end with the completion of the high school. The old high school served as an elementary school and storage space before being torn down in 1950. In the same year, a gymnasium and auditorium were added to the high school plant. Two years later, the frame building adjacent to the old brick building was torn down and a modern brick elementary school and cafeteria were built in its stead. The last addition was in 1960, when a growing music program necessitated the construction of a band hall.

In 1967 the Corrigan High School burned to the ground. But like the mythical Phoenix, a new one shall rise from the ashes. The consolidation of the Corrigan and Camden school districts makes possible an even larger junior-senior high school facility, thus creating a cycle: growth, consolidation, expansion, reconsolidation, and expansion. It is an infinite cycle which will carry the Corrigan-Camden School District forever onward in the never-ending search for educational excellence.

WITH A LOOK TOWARD THE FUTURE . . .

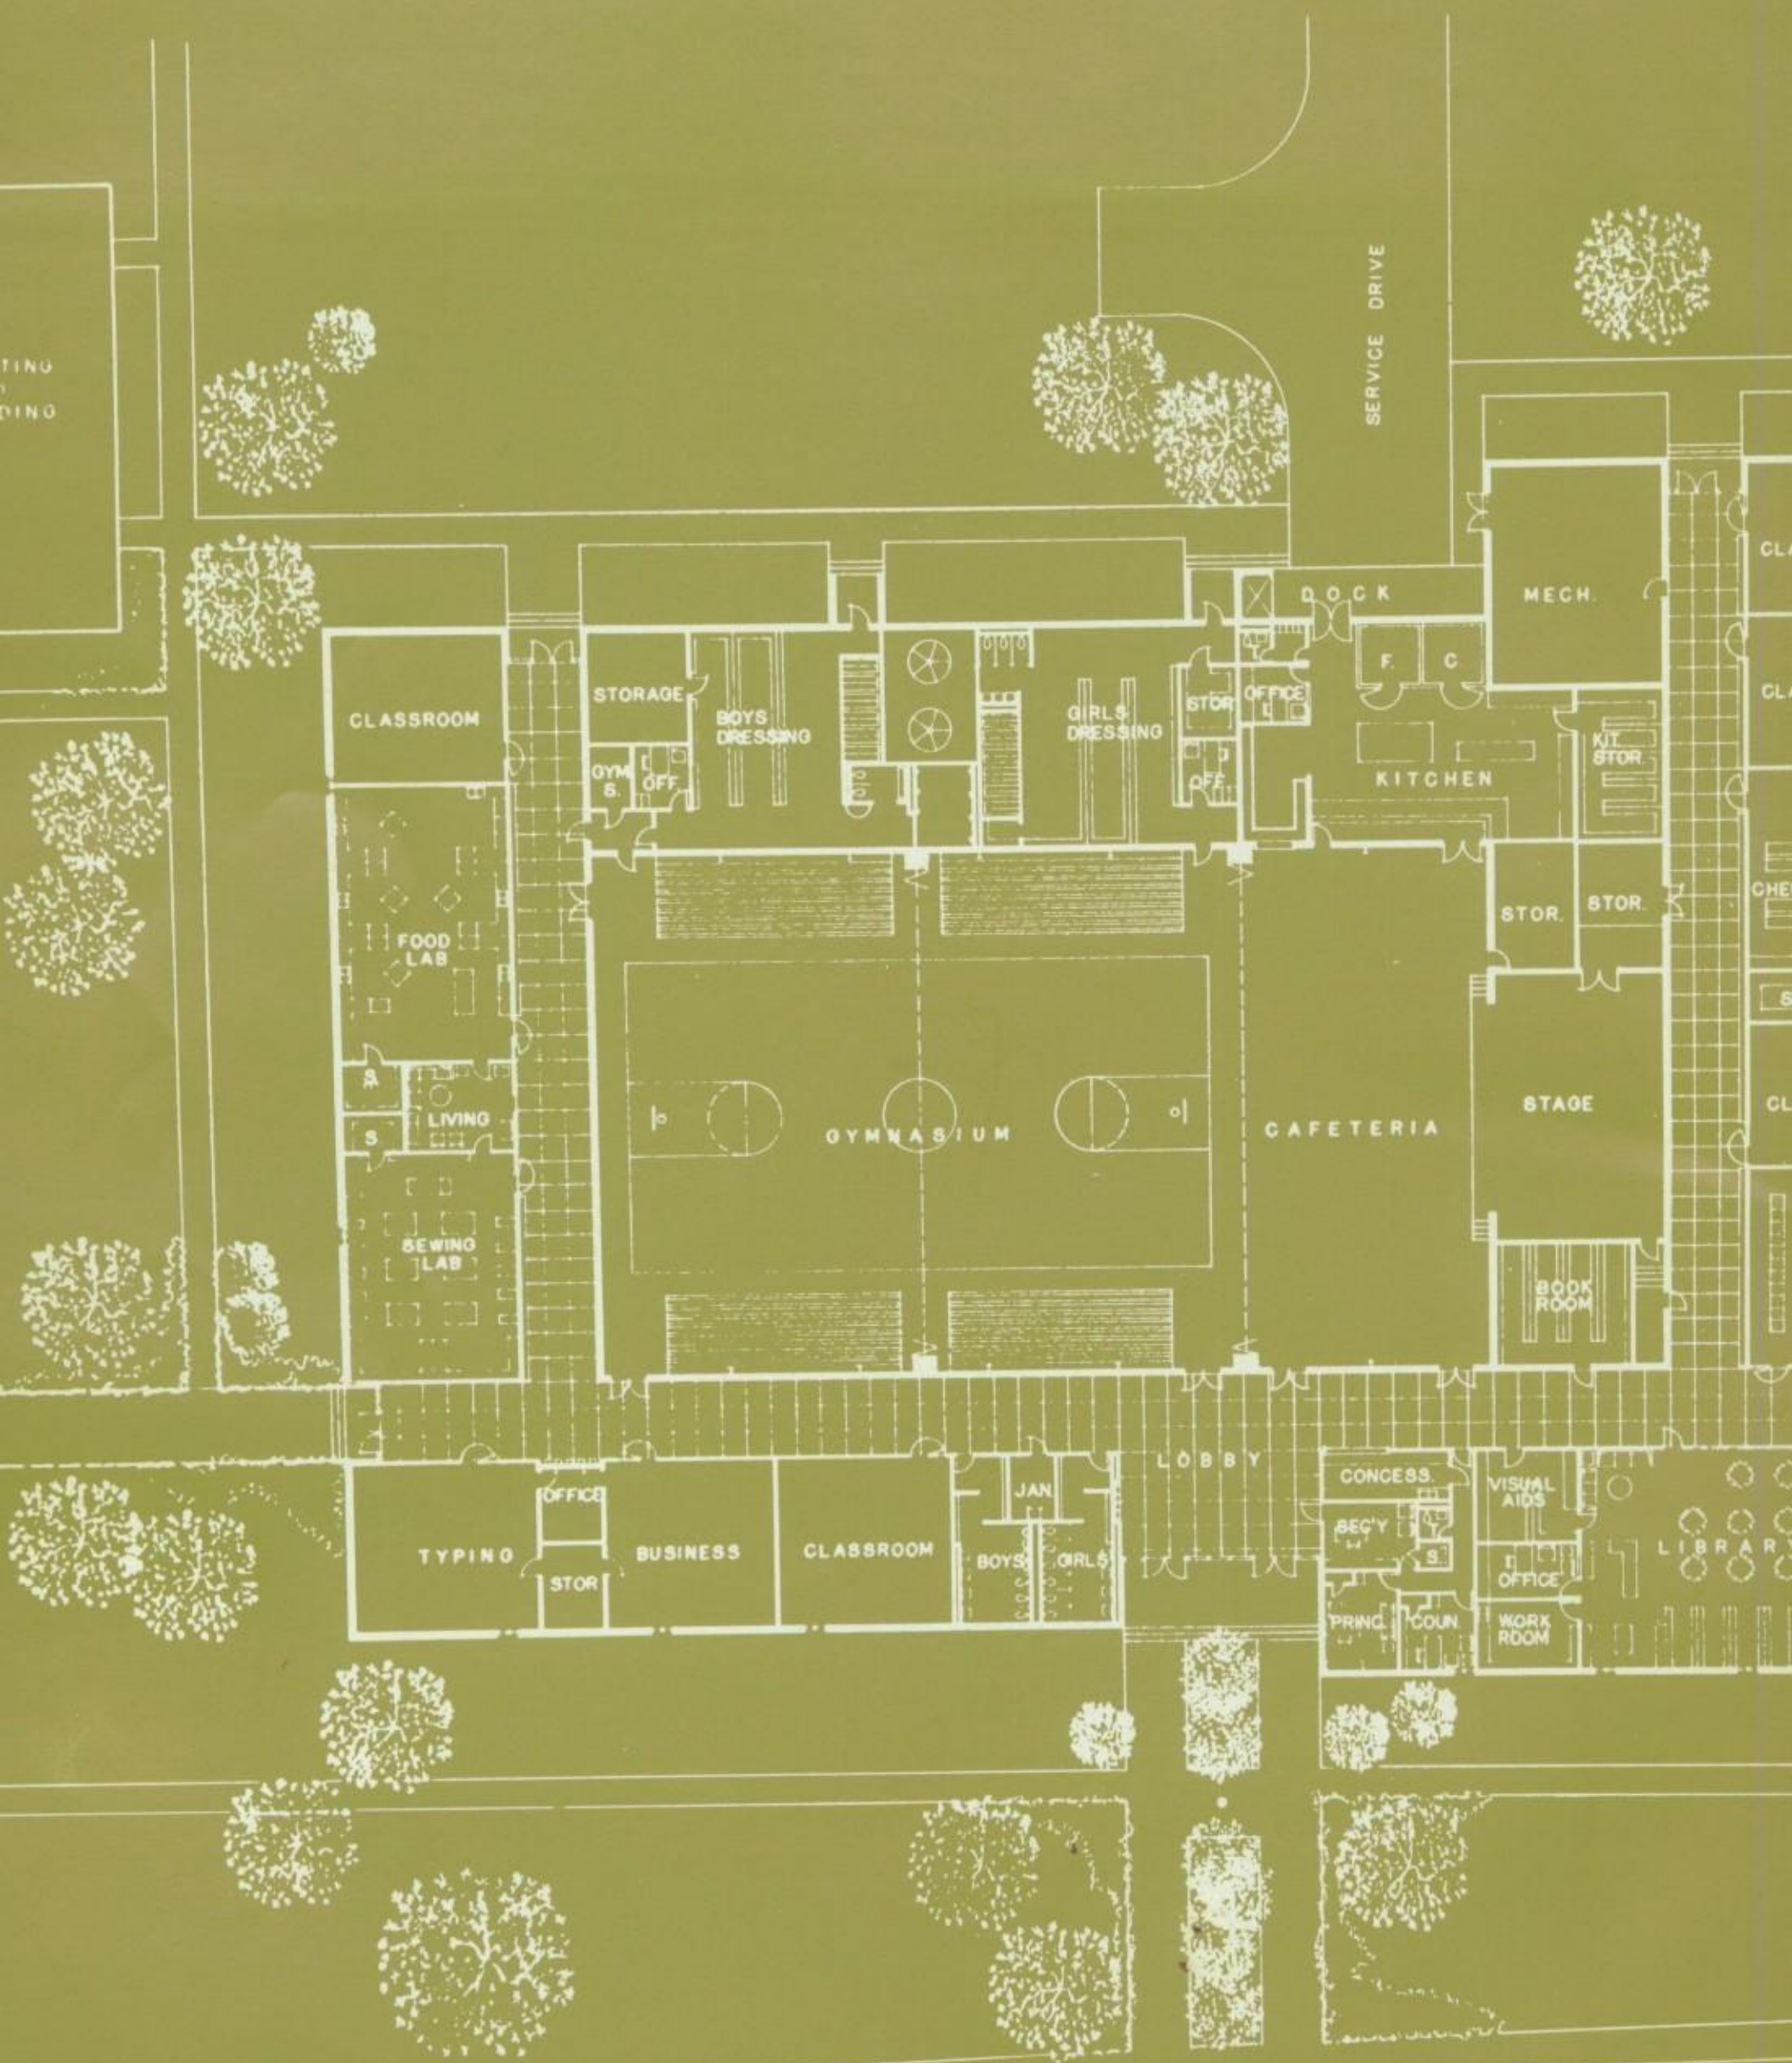

The proposed Corrigan-Camden High School to be built at a cost of $1,027,000 on the site of the old school plant will incorporate the latest concepts of school construction as well as functional design.

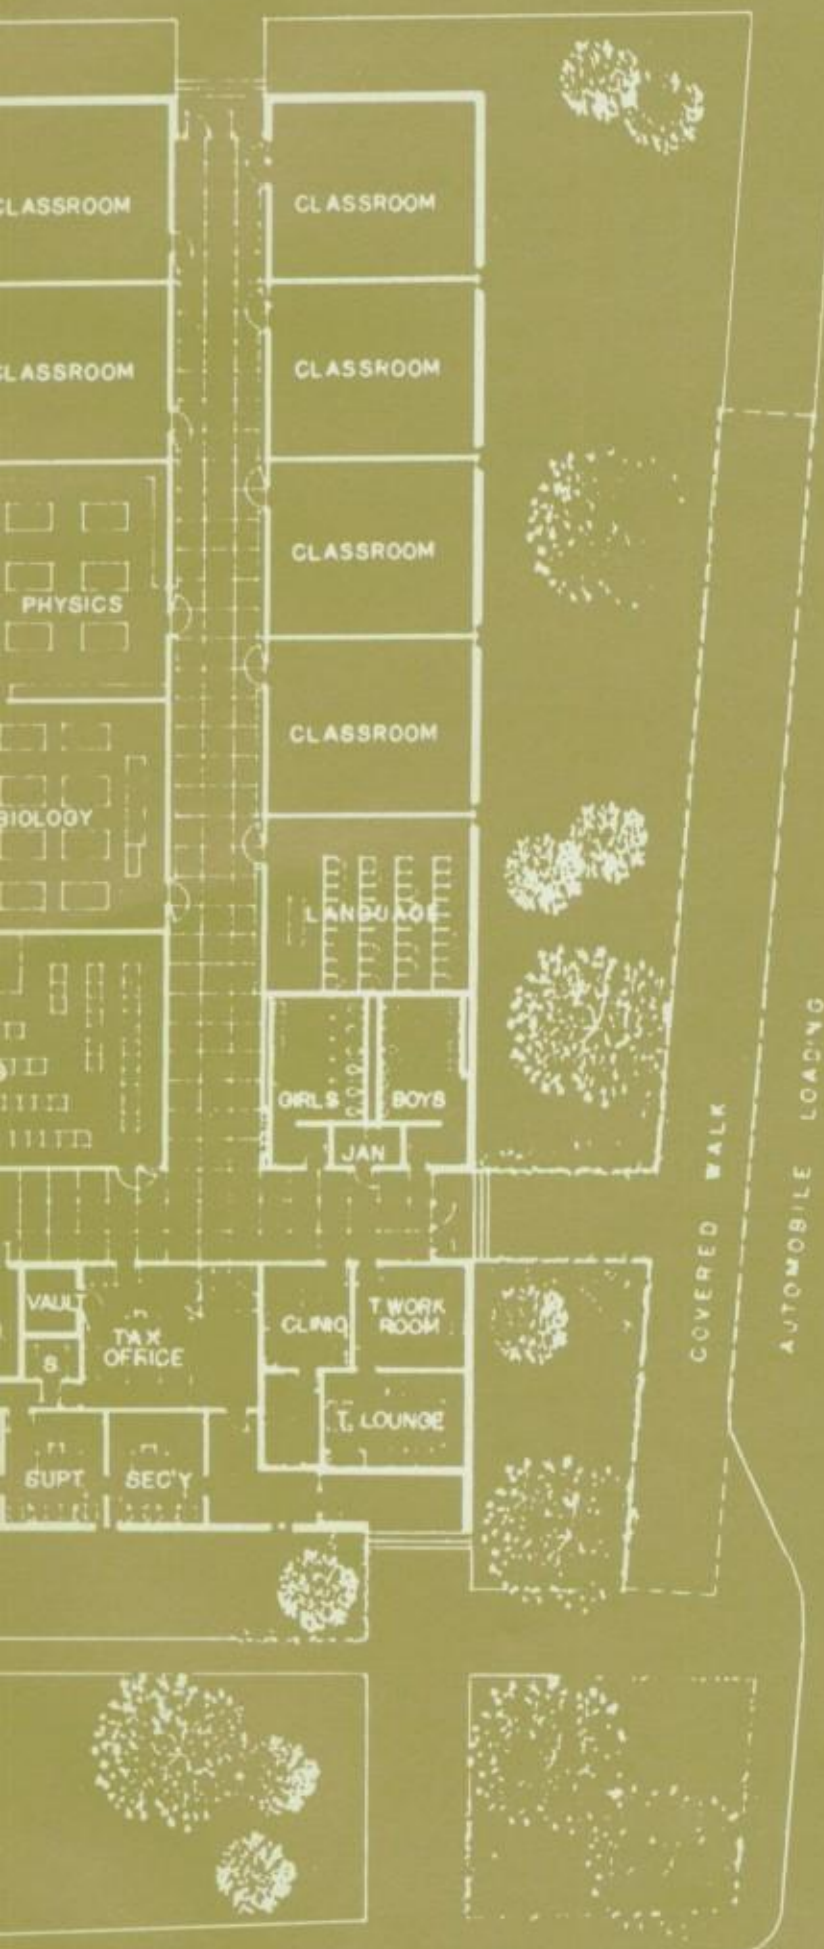

The 57,430 square feet of space will be completely air-conditioned and constructed of steel beam framing, concrete-block walls and brick exterior.

Scheduled to open its doors for students in the fall of 1969, the school will facilitate an area of 244 square miles. Its many modernistic features will truly provide the area with the finest educational facilities possible.

PLANS FOR CORRIGAN-CAMDEN SCHOOL FEATURE LATEST CONCEPTS IN EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES

Features of the proposed Corrigan-Camden School include:

A college-sized gymnasium with a moveable wall which will divide the court into two separate sections. Seating for 870 will be furnished by roll-away bleachers.

A 300-person capacity cafeteria and stainless steel kitchen in conjunction with the gymnasium.

A business education department that will include two laboratories to provide for the teaching of typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping.

A science department consisting of three labs for the teaching of biology, chemistry, and physics.

A master teaching room which will be the focal point for movies, lectures, team-teaching, and other group activities.

A ten-thousand volume library and visual-aids room.

Ten conventional classrooms, bringing to twenty-four the total number of teaching stations.

An auditorium, complete with dressing facilities and seating for 480. Partitions will separate the gymnasium, cafeteria, and auditorium, which, when removed, will provide a seating capacity for 1700 persons.

J. R. COCKRELL
Superintendent

Busy citizens who comprise the Corrigan-Camden Board of Trustees work closely with Superintendent J. R. Cockrell in formulating and exercising school policies. The Board spent a great portion of the school year studying architectural drawings, making detailed plans, and reaching important decisions concerning the proposed Corrigan-Camden High School.

Upon the consolidation of the two districts in the fall of 1967, four members of the former Corrigan Board of Trustees retained their positions while three Camden members remained to form the Corrigan-Camden Board of Trustees.

Former members of the Corrigan and Camden Boards to whom the citizens of each community owe a great debt of gratitude for having faithfully contributed dedicated years of service to the betterment of their respective school districts are M. C. Hughes, Fred Sage, and Kenneth Knox, Corrigan; and Harold Hoffman, George Schoenemann, James Sterling, and Sam Martin, Camden.

Through the combined efforts of the administration, faculty, and able secretarial staff, our community will continue to benefit from the versatile program devised to develop students into more responsible, mature, young adults.

MR. FRANK HYDE
High School Principal

OUR TOWER OF STRENGTH

In his second year as principal of Corrigan High School, Mr. Frank Hyde has worked diligently to maintain co-ordination between faculty and students. Included in his many duties as principal of a high school are the scheduling of classes, and the planning of assemblies and many other meetings for the student body that involve a great deal of his time and effort to assure that the school program runs smoothly. This year, in addition to his administrative duties, Mr. Hyde taught two history classes, co-sponsored the freshman class, and helped with special art for the Blue Quill.

Mr. Hyde actively participates in numerous civic and church activities. Yet, he is never too busy to spend parts of his busy day counseling a student whenever it becomes necessary or to speak a cheerful word to those whom he meets in the halls. In the short time that Mr. Hyde has been with us at Corrigan High, he has truly become our tower of strength.

A MAN OF VERSATILITY

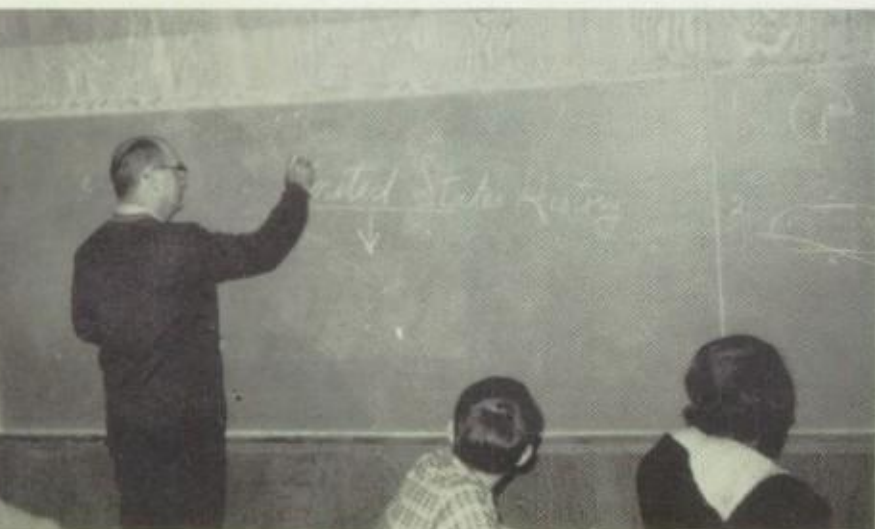

MR. B. E. SHELTON
Principal
Corrigan Junior High School

Twenty years of devoted service in many capacities have truly made Mr. Byron Shelton a "man of versatility". He prepared himself for these many capacities through years of study in various universities and colleges, some of which are Loyala University of New Orleans, Louisiana State University, and Stephen F. Austin State College.

Mr. Shelton is not only the principal of the junior high school; he is also director of the Corrigan-Camden High School and Elementary bands, junior high social studies teacher, and school counselor.

In the years that Mr. Shelton has been teaching in Corrigan, he has helped counsel individuals who can function alone or perform together as a unit in which the citizens of Corrigan take great pride.

MRS. WATTS HELPS BUILD GOOD CITIZENS IN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

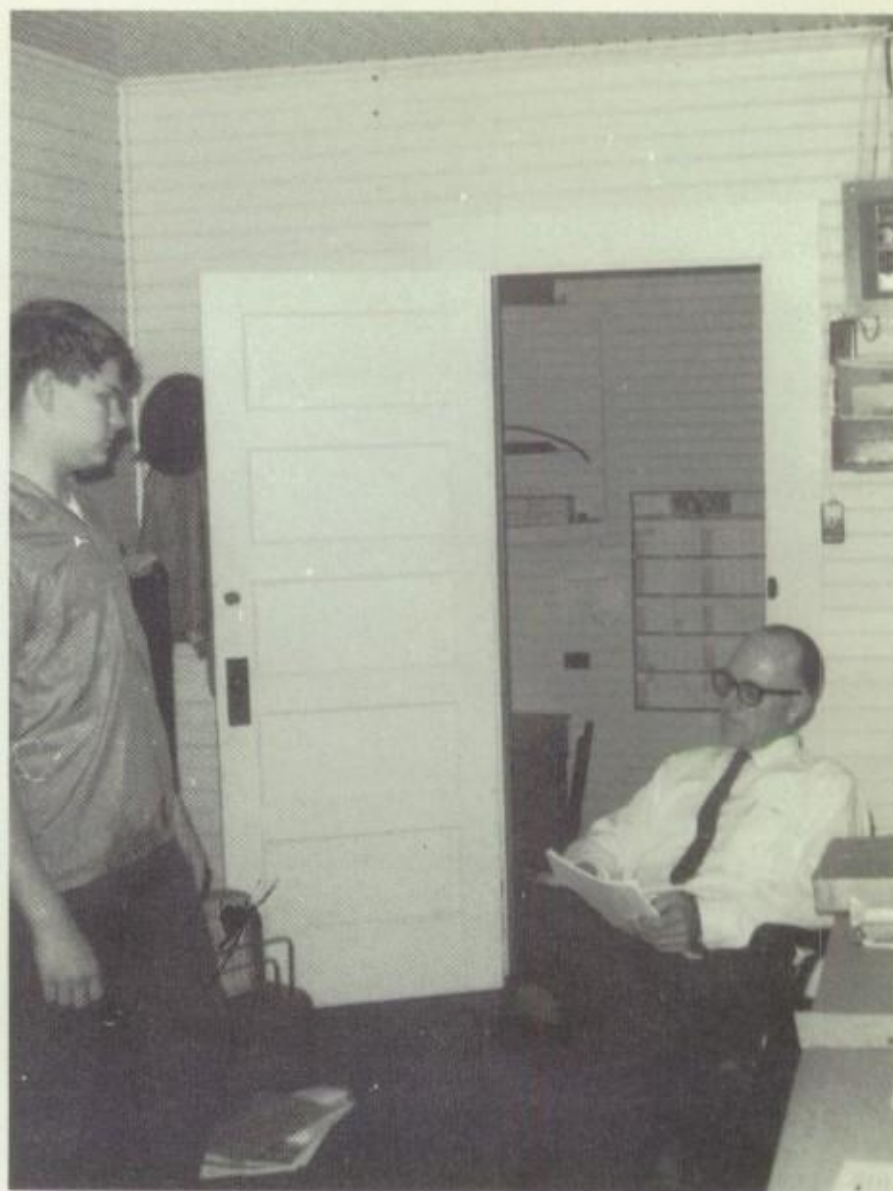

MRS. GENEVA WATTS
Principal
Corrigan Elementary

The first six years of school are considered by educators to be the most important part of a child's education. It is during these years that a child learns many of the basic ideas he will hold throughout his life.

Mrs. Watts has devoted thirty-eight years of her life to the teaching profession, spending twenty-three of these years as principal. She has helped to guide and direct the shaping of young minds, thus making her students good citizens who will be able to meet the responsibilities of the years to come.

MR. RICE HELPS STUDENTS DEVELOP INDIVIDUALITY

The responsibility for the successful operation of the Camden Elementary School rests upon the shoulders of its principal, Mr. E. G. Rice. As principal of Camden Elementary for twenty-six years, he has worked hard to promote individuality among students.

Mr. Rice received his B. S. and M. Ed. degrees at Stephen F. Austin College. He has been in the teaching profession for thirty-five years, thirty-three of which he has been principal.

Mr. Rice does not teach a class, but devotes all of his time to making Camden Elementary a better place for its students.

YULETIDE: 1967

The erection and trimming of the traditional Lions Club Christmas tree on the town square initiated a number of parties, assembly programs, and other activities for Corrigan students. The tree, as well as the many strings of colorful lights and the sound of Christmas chimes pervading the air, filled each citizen of Corrigan with the gay holiday spirit.

"SIGNOR" DON KIRKLAND
Master of Ceremonies

Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Nancy Bryant, Stella Manry, Mary Bolton, and Carolyn Cockrell.

The junior class, sponsored by Miss Ginny Shelton and Mr. Roy Pate, worked throughout the year preparing for their banquet which was held in May to honor the Seniors. Money was raised in various ways, including bake sales, a barbecue supper, and a movie sponsored by the class.

Finally, after many months of planning, the prom was held at the Dogwood Inn in Woodville. In carrying out the theme, "Romance in Venice," the banquet room was gaily decorated with murals of gondoliers rowing through the streets of Venice, life-sized gondolas, and street lamps placed at focal points in the room.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. Dorothy Rushing, Chairman of the Communications Division at El Centro Junior College in Dallas. Following the banquet, Bill Frazier and the "Travelers" provided music for the prom.

The approximately thirty-three students who comprise the recently formed Corrigan Organization of Library Assistants have volunteered numerous services for the student body throughout the year. Sponsored by Mrs. Jean Reily, high school librarian, the organization's purposes are:

- To give pupils an opportunity to broaden their personal experience;

- To give pupils an opportunity to become more adept in the use of books and libraries;

- To provide opportunity to explore vocational interests through prevocational experiences;

- To provide opportunity for experiencing the satisfactions inherent in service to fellow students and teachers;

- To promote cooperative attitudes between the librarian and students;

- To provide additional opportunities for democratic participation;

- To provide opportunities for developing and using special abilities and skills;

- To help provide increased and improved library services to the school community.

SITTING: Ronnie Purvis, Gene Bacon, Lon Helton, Mike Jones, Gerald Standley, Andrew Gesford, Roy Brown, Don Kirkland.

KNEELING: Manager Mike Cockrell, Willoughby Gibbs, Bobby Riley, Jerry Perkins, Steve Sage, Jay Standley, Lynn Hubbard, Edgar Harris.

STANDING: Coach Don Phillips, Mike Reily, John Saxon, Mike Ener, Edward Hance, Carlos Perkins, Joe Cluck, Noah Bacon, Bobby Stanford.

Captains for the Bulldogs this year were Noah Bacon, Gene Bacon, and Gerald Standley. These boys provided examples which the others gladly followed; they were the leaders of the team.

The Bulldogs began their 1967 season with many long hours of practice during the summer. When the heat became unbearable, Manager Mike Cockrell supplied the longed-for ice and stepped back to watch the Bulldogs dig in.

BULLDOG SPIRIT ENLIGHTENS SHADOW OF DEFEAT

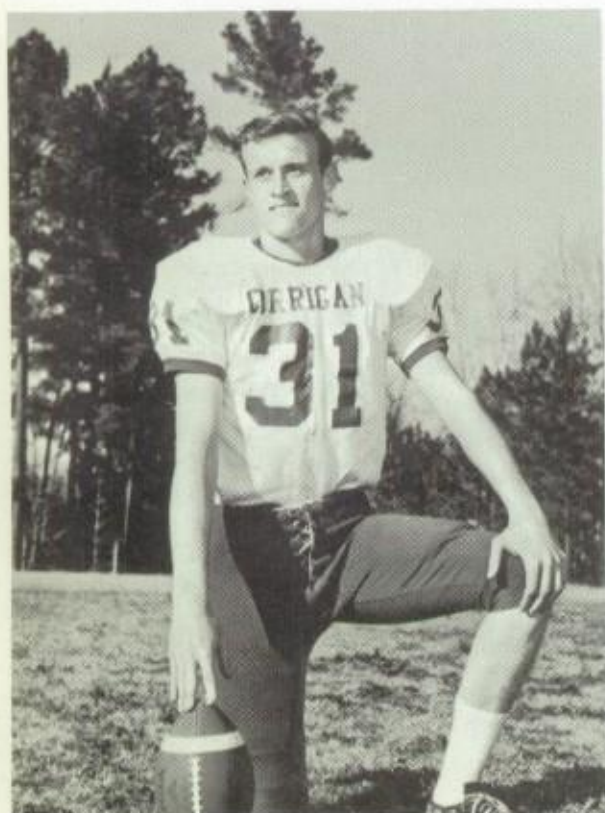

The Bulldogs were proud to have three players selected as All-District Players. They were: Bobby Riley, First Team Defense; Edward Hance, Second Team Offense; and Gene Bacon, Second Team Offense. These boys represent the cream of Corrigan's football team. Much is expected from them next year.

The Bulldogs and their coaches talk things over during half-time of the Chester game. The Bulldogs used this time for altering their defensive and offensive strategy to meet the opponent's stronger points.

BASKETBALL SEASON BRINGS NEW SPIRIT OF DETERMINATION

The Name of the Game is Spirit! The Corrigan Bulldogs and Coach Don Phillips proved this during the 1967-68 basketball season. The high-spirited Bulldogs put forth one hundred per cent effort in each game they played, whether they won or lost. They worked hard for each rebound, jumpshot, and loose ball during the game.

Even though the Bulldogs did not win first in district play, they were the leaders in sportsmanship.

The Corrigan Bulldogs experienced their best season of the year in baseball, racking up an impressive 8-3 record and tying for the zone championship. There were many reasons for the successful season.

First of all, the Bulldogs had an outstanding duo of pitchers. Backing up the pitchers was a tightly-held infield and outfield which held the opponents' few hits to even fewer runs. All of this was backed up by plenty of reserve strength. The Bulldogs backed up this defense with a boiler-house of hitting.

The last, and most important, was firm and wholehearted support of the student body. The fans turned out in strength to back the boys at every game.

CLASS OF '68 SMALLEST IN SCHOOL'S HISTORY

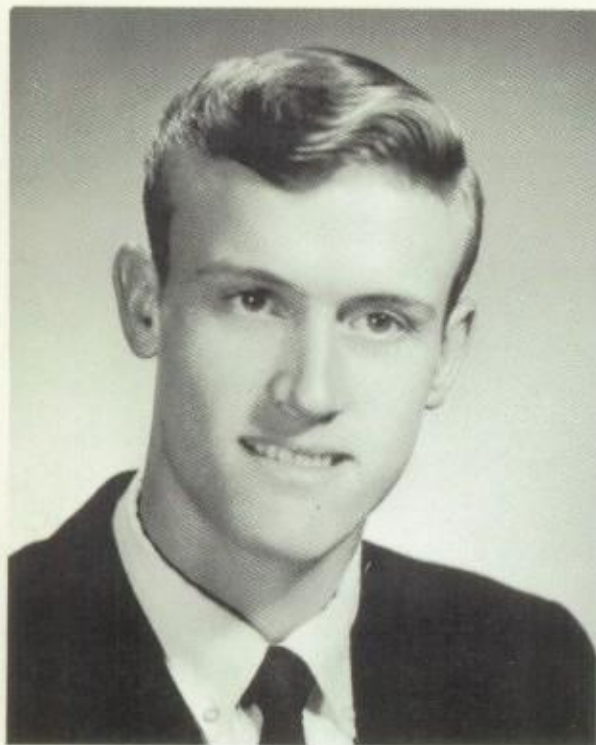

Consisting of only eleven students, the graduating class of 1968 is the smallest senior class recorded in the history of Corrigan High School.

However, even though the class is small in number, it has been big in accomplishment. Throughout the year, the seniors sponsored various activities to raise funds for the annual senior trip, some of which were bake sales, Western Day, Slave Sale, and concession stands at football games.

On May 16 and 17, profits from these activities were realized when the seniors and their sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Eidson, visited the Hemisfair in San Antonio, Texas.

A MESSAGE TO OUR ADVERTISERS

The publication of the 1968 BLUE QUILL has been a challenge. It is the largest edition of the yearbook ever published by our school and is representative of the student body with a greater spirit of enthusiasm and determination.

We certainly could not have met this challenge without the warm support and generous encouragement of our many advertisers. To them, we say a sincere "Thank You."
